

Disclosure Statement for Caroline Theoharides

for the paper:

“Distortions in the International Migrant Labor Market: Evidence from Filipino Migration and Wage Responses to Destination Country Economic Shocks”, submitted by David McKenzie (World Bank), Caroline Theoharides (University of Michigan) and Dean Yang (University of Michigan) for consideration at the American Economic Journal: Applied Economics.

1. The sources of funding are shown in the opening note to the paper.
2. Within the past three years (since July 2009), I have received funding from the sources detailed in the table below. These sources have provided funding for my graduate school tuition, stipend, and health insurance. Each of these sources is an interested party in that their award resulted from proposals on migration research and its impacts on developing countries.

| Funding amount | Funding source and period                                     |
|-----------------------|--|
| $126,000             | National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship (2008-2010) |
| $100,000             | Rackham Merit Fellowship (University of Michigan) (2011-2013)        |

3. I have no paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of relevant non-profit organizations or profit-making entities.
4. None of my close relatives nor my husband have paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of relevant non-profit organizations or profit-making entities.
5. No other party had the right to review the manuscript.