

How Effective Are U.S. Renewable Energy Subsidies in Cutting Greenhouse Gases?

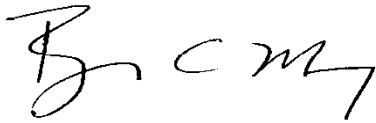

Disclosure Statement – Brian Murray

Sources of financial support for this research: None

Sources of financial support over the past 3 years: The author declares that he has received financial support in the form of a research grant from Shell Corporation, though that work was not related in any way to the research conducted for this article. The work for Shell did come with a non-disclosure agreement related to specific data, but did not preclude the right to publish.

Rights to review the paper prior to submission: The author declares that no party has had the right to review this manuscript prior to submission.

IRB approval: No IRB approval was required for this paper. The paper reviews existing literature and does not involve human subjects.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'B. C. Murray'.