

“Keeping it Simple: Financial Literacy and Rules of Thumb”

AEJ Disclosure Statement for Greg Fischer (LSE, International Growth Centre, Innovations for Poverty Action, Jameel Poverty Action Lab)

26 September 2013

The author declares that he has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper. Since 2012, Greg Fischer has served as an unpaid member of the Research Advisory Board for Youth Business International (YBI), a network of independent non-profit initiatives that help young people start and growth businesses. Some of YBI’s activities include business training and mentoring services for young entrepreneurs. The author further declares that no party had a right to review this paper prior to its circulation. IRB approval for the project on which this paper is based was received from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Committee on the Use of Humans as Experimental Subjects (COUHES).

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'GF', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Greg Fischer