

Does Federal Student Aid Raise Tuition? New Evidence on For-Profit Colleges

---- Disclosure of Financial Relationships for Claudia Goldin -----

I declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper. The funding for my portion of this project was primarily from unrestricted university funds. Various research assistants were funded through these unrestricted grants but most of the research work was done by the two authors. I have funding to research the for-profit sector from the Institute of Education Sciences (Department of Education) through Columbia University (Center for Analysis of Postsecondary Education and Employment). But this research was conducted before receipt of that grant.
