

Does Federal Student Aid Raise Tuition? New Evidence on For-Profit Colleges

---- Disclosure of Financial Relationships for Stephanie Riegg Cellini ----

I declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper. My work on this project was not externally funded. Research assistance was provided through my general research support at George Washington University. However, a previous grant from the Ford Foundation supported my work on a policy brief identifying potential sources of state regulatory agency data across all 50 states. We drew on data from five of these states for this analysis.