

From: Greg Wright

Lecturer in Economics University of Essex

gcwright@essex.ac.uk

to: American Economic Review

August 27, 2012

Financial disclosure for the paper “Offshoring, Immigration and American Jobs”:

I am disclosing in this statement all the financial support I received from company and foundations during the last 3 years.

I received in year 2011 together with Gianmarco Ottaviano, Giovanni Peri (coauthors of this paper) and several other researchers a 3-year grant from the Volkswagen Foundation with the Title: “Europe’s Global Linkages and the Impact of the Financial Crisis: Policies for Sustainable Trade, Capital Flows and Migration (coverage period: 2011-2013). The amount of money given by the Grant to our team was 45,000 $.

I, along with Anson Soderbery, received in 2012 a grant from the British Academy to study “The Short- and Long-Run Gains from Trade”. The amount was £2700.

I, along with John Morrow and Swati Dhingra of the London School of Economics, received in 2012 a grant from STICERD (at LSE) to study “The UK Automotive Industry: Global Crisis and Adaptation”. The amount was £4000.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'G Wright', with a stylized circular flourish at the end.

Greg Wright