

Disclosure Statement for Esther Duflo

(1) Every submitted article should state sources of financial support for the particular research it describes. If none, that fact should be stated.

Sustainability Science Program Harvard, Harvard University Center for Environment, CEEPR, International Growth Center, 3ie and the National Science Foundation.

(2) Each author of a submitted article should identify each interested party from whom she has received significant financial support, summing to at least $10,000 in the past three years, in the form of consultant fees, retainers, grants and the like. The disclosure requirement also includes in-kind support, such as providing access to data. If the support in question comes with a non-disclosure obligation, that fact should be stated, along with as much information as the obligation permits. If there are no such sources of funds, that fact should be stated explicitly. An “interested” party is any individual, group, or organization that has a financial, ideological, or political stake related to the article.

Duflo is a co-founder and Board member of Jameel Poverty Action Lab who’s mission statement is the use of scientific evidence for poverty alleviation.

(3) Each author should disclose any paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of relevant non-profit organizations or profit-making entities. A “relevant” organization is one whose policy positions, goals, or financial interests relate to the article.

Duflo is a co-founder and board member of Jameel Poverty Action Lab at MIT whose aim is to use scientific evidence to inform policy.

(4) The disclosures required above apply to any close relative or partner of any author.

Not applicable

(5) Each author must disclose if another party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.

None required