

Disclosure statement

For “Why Don’t Households Smooth Consumption? Evidence from a 25 million dollar experiment”

Jonathan A. Parker, MIT and NBER

February 2017

The author declares that he has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper. All funding sources are disclosed in the initial footnote.

The results in the paper are based on data licensed from the KILTS Center at the University of Chicago, which reviewed the paper prior to publication to ensure that the confidentiality of survey participants was not compromised and that the paper did not violate the terms of use (academic research unrelated to analysis of the quality of the data).

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Jonathan A. Parker". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "J" and a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.

Jonathan A. Parker