

Disclosure Statement for Mark Duggan

“The Efficiency Consequences of Health Care Privatization:
Evidence from Medicare Advantage Exits”

October 2015

Below are disclosure notifications for the paper referenced above, which my co-authors and I are submitting for consideration to the American Economic Review. These are in response to the four specific numbered questions contained in the AEA disclosure document that is available at the following website:

https://www.aeaweb.org/aea_journals/AEA_Disclosure_Policy.pdf

1. I did not receive any financial support for my work on the paper referenced above.
2. I have not received any financial support in the past three years from a party that would have a financial, ideological, or political stake in the paper referenced above. I have received more than $10,000 over the last three years in financial support from the American Economic Association for my role as a Co-Editor at the American Economic Journal: Economic Policy. I also currently have a research grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation that will be supporting research by Courtney Coile and me on the VA's Disability Compensation program during the 7/2015 to 6/2017 period. I just learned that I have received another research grant from the Alfred P. Sloan foundation that will be supporting research by Gopi Shah Goda and me on the labor supply effects of the Affordable Care Act.
3. I am a member of the advisory board of Nuna, Inc., which is a health care analytics startup. This advisory role had no impact on the contents of this article and I have not received any financial support from this company (though I do have a small equity stake). I am also the Director of the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research.
4. None of my close relatives have received any financial support for my work on the paper referenced above. None of my close relatives have received any financial support in the past three years from a party that would have a financial, ideological, or political stake in the paper referenced above. None of my close relatives are an officer, director, or board member in a profit or non-profit organization that has a relevant relationship to the contents of the article referenced above.
5. No party had the right to review the paper prior to its publication.