

Disclosure statement for Alexander Gelber

I served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Economic Policy at the U.S. Treasury from June 2012 to June 2013. In this capacity, I served as a member of the Social Security Trustees Working Group.

This research was supported by Social Security Administration Grant 33-5101-00-1-15-537 to the Disability Research Consortium at the National Bureau of Economic Research, as well as the UC Berkeley Burch Center, Institute for Research on Labor and Employment, and Center on Governing and Investing for the Future. Consistent with their grants policy, the Social Security Administration reviewed a draft of this paper prior to its release to ensure confidentiality and offered non-binding minor editorial suggestions. However, the authors retain sole editorial control and responsibility for the paper. In addition to this support, I have received grant support from the Social Security Retirement Research Consortium, the Sloan Foundation, the Upjohn Institute, the National Institute on Aging, and the National Institute of Health for other research.

I declare that I have no other relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

IRB approval was not obtained for this study as the nature of the data used for the study render the project exempt.
