

Making Moves Matter:
Experimental Evidence on Incentivizing Bureaucrats through Performance-Based Postings

Disclosure Statement for Asim Ijaz Khwaja

- Financial support for the project came from 3ie, the IGC (supported by the UK Department for International Development), and the NSF (under grant SES-1124134).
- Fieldwork for this project in Pakistan was managed by the Centre for Economic Research, Pakistan.
- This project received the in-kind support of the Government of Punjab, Pakistan, which provided access to administrative tax data for the project and which implemented the transfers described in this paper. I have received no financial payments from the Government of Punjab.
- Neither the funders nor the Government of Punjab had right of prior review over this study.
- I am a director of Evidence for Policy Design (EPoD) at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government. EPoD has no stake in the outcomes of any given evaluation results, however EPoD does have a position on what is considered a rigorous evaluation methodology.
- I am a cofounder and unpaid board member of the Centre for Economic Research, Pakistan (CERP). CERP has no stake in the outcomes of any given evaluation results, however CERP does have a position on what is considered a rigorous evaluation methodology.
- I serve as an editor of the Review of Economics and Statistics (journal). Editor Compensation.