

October 12, 2017

Financial and IRB disclosure statement for the article: "When incentives backfire: Spillover effects in food choice."

I hereby declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper. This research involves human subjects. Approval for this research was obtained from the Institutional Review Board at the University of Chicago, where I was on staff during the period when the human-subjects research was conducted.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Anya Samek', with a stylized, cursive script.

Anya Samek

University of Southern California