

Disclosure for Amy Finkelstein
“Screening and Selection: The Case of Mammograms”

Over the past three years, have I received more than $10,000 in research funding from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, the Laura and John Arnold Foundation, the Overdeck Family Foundation, Pew Charitable Trusts, the US National Institutes of Health, and the US Social Security Administration.

I serve in paid positions at the American Economic Association (as the Editor of American Economic Review: Insights), the National Bureau of Economic Research (as the co-director of the Public Economics Program), and at J-PAL North America at MIT (as co-Scientific Director).

I serve as an unpaid member of the Congressional Budget Office’s Panel of Health Advisers, an unpaid member of the board of the Health Care Cost Institute, an unpaid co-Director of the Health and Aging Fellowship at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and an unpaid Associate Editor at the American Economics Association’s Journal of Economic Perspectives.

Neither my spouse nor any close relatives have relevant disclosures.

Before starting to work on this paper, the research topic of the project was initially cleared by HCCI and SEER-Medicare. In addition, HCCI had the right to review the manuscript prior to public circulation, to ensure that no sensitive corporate information is unintentionally disclosed.
