Paper: Breastfeeding and Child Development

This research has been supported by the Economic and Social Research Council via the ESRC-funded Centre for the Microeconomic Analysis of Public Policy (CPP) at the Institute for Fiscal Studies, grant reference ES/H021221/1, and by the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme (grant agreement No 695300-HKADeC-ERC-2015-AdG).

Marcos Vera-Hernández was Principal Investigator in a project funded by UNICEF-Nepal to assess the impact of an integrated nutrition policy implemented by the Nepalese government, and he received remuneration for it. The project was awarded through international tender. The first draft of the submitted article was finalised before tendering for the project funded by UNICEF-Nepal. As an organisation, UNICEF supports breastfeeding.

There are no other potential conflicts of interest.

No IRB approval was obtained because the project uses only secondary data
