

MINISTERIO
DE CIENCIA, INNOVACIÓN
Y UNIVERSIDADES

Joan Llull

Professor

Institute of Economic Analysis

and Barcelona School of Economics

Cerdanyola del Vallès, November 15th, 2025

Disclosure statement

1. The authors received financial support for broad projects that included, among other topics, the research presented in our article “Labor Market Competition and the Assimilation of Immigrants”. In particular, the author acknowledges the following grants:

- European Research Council, through Starting Grant 804989 (DYMOLAMO) and Consolidator Grant 101125422 (OPIMPOL).

- The Spanish Ministry of Science and Innovation, through the Plan Nacional grants PID2020-114231RB-I00 and PID2024-162507OB-I00, and through the Severo Ochoa Programme for Centers of Excellence in R&D, grant CEX2019-

000915-S and CEX2024-001476-S, funded by
MICIU/AEI/10.13039/501100011033.

2. The author declares that there are no "interested" parties related to the article.

3. The author declares that during part of this research he was the Director of Fundació Markets, Organizations, and Votes in Economics (MOVE). The Director position was unpaid. Fundació MOVE was a non-profit research foundation that had the goal of promoting academic research. The foundation held no policy positions and had no financial interests that are related to the content of this article. The foundation was dissolved effective Jan 1st 2024.

4. No third party had the right to review the paper previous to its circulation.

Joan Llull