Paper: The Leaky College Pipeline: Evidence from Administrative Data in Uganda

(1) Every submitted article should state the sources of financial support for the particular research it describes. If none, that fact should be stated.

This study was funded by the Fundacao para a Ciencia e a Tecnologia (The Foundation for Science and Technology in Portugal) and Policy Impacts.

(2) Each author of a submitted article should identify each interested party from whom he or she has received significant financial support, summing to at least $10,000 in the past three years, in the form of consultant fees, retainers, grants and the like. The disclosure requirement also includes in-kind support, such as providing access to data. If the support in question comes with a non-disclosure obligation, that fact should be stated, along with as much information as the obligation permits. If there are no such sources of funds, that fact should be stated explicitly. An “interested” party is any individual, group, or organization that has a financial, ideological, or political stake related to the article.

The author team has obtained access to the administrative data from the Uganda National Examinations Board (UNEB) and Public University Joint Admissions Board (PUJAB).

The author received no other financial or in-kind support from any other interested party.

(3) Each author should disclose any paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of relevant non-profit organizations or profit-making entities. A “relevant” organization is one whose policy positions, goals, or financial interests relate to the article.

The author declares that she has no paid or unpaid positions with “relevant” organizations that have an interest related to this article.

(4) The disclosures required above apply to any close relative or partner of any author.

Not applicable.

(5) Each author must disclose if another party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.

Not applicable.

(6) For any paper involving the collection of data on human subjects the author(s) must disclose whether they have obtained Institutional Review Board (IRB) approval; if no IRB approval was obtained, the reason should be stated.

IRB approval was obtained from the Nova School of Business and Economics (reference #202240).
