

“The Private Provision of Public Services: Evidence from Random Assignment in Medicaid”

Disclosure Statement, Jacob Wallace, May 2025

Sources of financial support for the research:

I receive salary as an associate professor of public health at the Yale School of Public Health. Although I received no specific research funding supporting this project, my health-related research has been supported by Arnold Ventures, Robert Wood Johnson, the Commonwealth Fund, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (1R01AA030170), National Institute on Aging (1R01AG077949 and 1R01AG080439), the National Institute on Nursing Research (1R01NR020855), and the National Institute on Drug Abuse (1R01DA057789).

Potentially relevant professional and financial relationships in the past 3 years:

None

Paid or unpaid positions of relevant entities:

For 2023-2025 I served as a paid consultant to the state of California on their Risk Stratification Segmentation and Tiering Workgroup. My work there assists in the development of healthcare policy for the Medicaid program. I am an unpaid member of New York Medicaid’s Evidence-based Benefit Review and Advisory Committee — that assesses new medical technologies and makes coverage recommendations to the Department of Health.

Spousal or family-related COIs:

My spouse is counsel at Manatt, Phelps, and Phillips, a Medicaid-focused law firm and consultancy.
