

Disclosure statement by Samuel Bowles for concerning “The evolution of egalitarian socio-linguistic conventions”

My research for this paper was supported financially by the Behavioral Sciences Program of the Santa Fe Institute. I received no funds from any “interested party” as defined in the AEA’s disclosure policy principles statement. I hold no positions in a “relevant organization” as defined in the AEA’s disclosure policy principles statement. These statements are also true for my close relatives/partners. No other party had a right of review of the paper prior to its circulation.
