Dear Fellow Economists:

The vagaries of third class mail being what they are, we hope you will receive this letter before Christmas. With luck it may even arrive before Thanksgiving. We understand that a number of you did not get the June letter until sometime in August, and we appreciate your prompt replies to the questionnaire on Job Opportunity listings under the circumstances.

You will note that the Job Opportunities section is included with this issue. The Committee has decided to continue the listings in view of the favorable (though small) response to the follow-up questionnaire in the last Newsletter and other comments we have received. CSWEP members report that they find the listings helpful whether or not they are actively job hunting, as a source of information about opportunities in their field, qualifications required and going rate of pay. The listings are also indicative of employers who at least care enough about affirmative action to contact CSWEP. For those actively seeking employment, the CSWEP listings are best used as a supplement to, but not a substitute for JOE (Job Opportunities for Economists). Further information about JOE is provided in the Job Opportunities section.

COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES

CSWEP members met on October 8 in New York at the Social Science Research Council. We are grateful to Eleanor Sheldon, President of the SSRC, for making the conference facilities available.

The Committee welcomed two new members--Marianne Ferber of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and Ruth Saeffer of the Conference Board. Each will serve for a three-year term. Our thanks are due to Isabel Sawhill and Nancy Teeters, whose terms will end in December, for their many and valuable contributions to CSWEP.
There will be three CSWEP activities at the 1977 meetings of the American Economic Association in New York. One is the CSWEP sponsored session, as reported in the previous Newsletter, on the subject: "The Effects of the Increased Labor Force Participation of Women on Macroeconomic Goals." In addition, there will be an open CSWEP meeting for all members, scheduled at 4 o'clock on the first day of the meetings (December 28). The agenda will include presentation of reports on Committee activities and will offer an opportunity for suggestions from the floor of possible future directions of activity. If there are any agenda items you would like to suggest in advance of the meeting please forward them to Barbara Reagan, CSWEP Chair. As in previous years, CSWEP will also have a hospitality room that will be open throughout the meetings.

Volunteers are needed to help the Committee staff the hospitality room for two hour intervals (or one, if preferred). The hours are nine to five the first two days, closing at noon on the third day. If you are available and would like to serve, please write, giving times, if possible to Ruth Shaeffer, The Conference Board, 845 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Looking ahead to the August 1978 AEA meetings in Chicago, the theme of the CSWEP sponsored session is "Equity: Individual vs. the Family." This topic includes, but is not limited to such questions as: standards for measuring welfare levels of household; evaluation of non-market time; influence of ERA on incentives for family formation. If you are working on a paper which potentially falls within this theme, please send a 500 word abstract and either a copy of the paper you would like to present or a copy of another paper you have written to: Janice Madden, Department of Regional Science, University of Pennsylvania, 3718 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Penna. 19104.

The Committee is experimenting with the idea of broadening the base of CSWEP participation through the designation of regional representatives. As an initial step in that direction Gloria Shatto of Trinity University, San Antonio, and Joan Hayworth of Florida State will serve as co-chairs for the Southern region, thus giving Southwest and Southeast coverage. They will represent CSWEP at the forthcoming meeting of Southern Economic Association in New Orleans (November 2-4). On behalf of the Committee they will arrange for a display booth in the book section and possibly also a special CSWEP sponsored session. This effort is viewed as a pilot regional project. There will be an opportunity to discuss the idea further at the open CSWEP meeting in December.

As another experimental program, the Committee is interested in running a survey of ongoing research by associate members. They would appreciate hearing from you about research in progress. Please provide, preferably on an 3x5 card, the following information:
NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps announced in September the members of a new Interagency Task Force on Women Business Owners. The Task Force was established by President Carter and is charged with identifying obstacles that discourage women from entering business. Specifically, the Task Force will assess the adequacy of existing data on women entrepreneurs, identify needs for additional information and propose methods of collection; identify the primary practices or conditions which discourage women from becoming entrepreneurs, which discriminate against them or place them at a competitive disadvantage; assess current programs and practices which discriminate or are designed to mitigate these conditions and propose changes in Federal law, regulation and practice, including impact on the Federal budget. The new appointees are: Anne Wexler, Deputy Under-Secretary of Commerce for Regional Affairs, who will chair the Task Force; Patricia Mathis Harvey, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Administration, Department of the Treasury; Dale W. Church, Deputy Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Department of Defense; Alexis Herman, Director, Women's Bureau, Department of Labor; Arabella Martinez, Assistant Secretary for Human Development, HEW; Robert P. Graham, Commissioner, Federal Supply Service, GSA, and Patricia M. Cloherty, Deputy Administrator, Small Business Administration. Beth Abramowitz, Assistant Director of Education and Women's Issues.
White House Domestic Policy Staff, is an ex-officio member and Charlotte Taylor, formerly a Washington, D.C. management consultant will serve as Executive Director. The Task Force is expected to report to the President within 120 working days of its first meeting.

Isabel Sawhill has left the Urban Institute to become Director of the National Commission for Manpower Policy. Nancy Barrett has taken over as Director of the Program of Research on Women and Family Policy at the Urban Institute. Nancy is a former chairperson of the Economics Department at American University, Deputy Director of the Office of Fiscal Analysis at the Congressional Budget Office and senior economist with the Council of Economic Advisors.

The Brookings Institution recently published a report on Women and The Military by Martin Binkin and Shirley Bach. It finds that sexual stereotypes and traditions have denied equal opportunities to women seeking to serve in administrative, technical, medical and other noncombat jobs in the military and concludes that women should be able to fill close to 600,000 military enlisted jobs compared with 126,400 that is now planned.

The Chronicle of Higher Education in its Sept. 26 issue reports on a series of recent court decisions in which charges of sex discrimination by women faculty members have been rejected. In nearly all of the rulings against individual female plaintiffs the judges have shown themselves to be reluctant to overturn academic decisions based on peer review. Alternative strategies suggested by feminist lawyers and other women’s leaders include development of class action suits showing a pattern and practice of discrimination, establishment of better internal grievance procedures, greater use of collective bargaining and pressure for more active enforcement of civil rights laws by federal agencies.

Congressman Carl Pursell of Michigan has brought to the attention of CSWEP a bill which he introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives in July to remove an area of inequality toward women in taxation. This bill, H.R. 8615, called the Tax Averaging Equity Act, would amend the Internal Revenue Code to allow qualified individuals to disregard the income of a former spouse - whether divorced or widowed - in the computation of base period income for income averaging purposes. While both men and women would benefit, the legislation was developed with the thought that it is primarily women who are discriminated against in tax averaging. The bill has been referred to the Ways and Means Committee. If you wish to support this bill, send a letter of endorsement to Congressman Pursell or to your Congressman.

The AAUP is conducting a study of the use of part-time faculty in U.S. colleges and universities. The study, which is funded by The Ford Foundation, is under the direction of Howard P. Tuckman, Center for the Study of Education & Tax Policy, Florida State University, and is scheduled for completion in late 1978.
The Southwestern Assembly on Women and the American Economy took place in May at Southern Methodist University under the leadership of Barbara Reagan. This was the most recent in a series of regional conferences based on the background volume prepared for the American Assembly under the direction of Juanita Kreps and entitled Women and the American Economy: A Look to the 1980's. For those of you who are not familiar with the American Assembly, it is a national program of conferences which brings together leading Americans who represent a variety of pursuits and viewpoints. The objective of the Assembly is to throw impartial light on the major problems confronting America for more informed and effective citizen action. Following each conference the background papers and the report agreed upon by the participants are distributed as widely as possible for use as a discussion guide in schools, colleges, study groups and civic organizations. Further information may be obtained from the American Assembly, Columbia University, New York, N. Y. 10027.

The last Newsletter called attention to two important research conferences on women in the labor force. The first of these, co-sponsored by Barnard College, the Women's Bureau and ASPER, U.S. Department of Labor, took place in September. The papers will be published by the Columbia University Press. They include "Bargaining Analyses of Household Decisions" by Marilyn Manser and Murray Brown of SUNY at Buffalo, "Projecting the Size of the Female Labor Force: What Makes a Difference?" by Ralph Smith of the Urban Institute, "Dynamic Models of Female Labor Supply" by James Heckman of the University of Chicago, "Career Commitment and Labor Force Participation of Married Women" by Paula Stephan of Georgia State and Larry Schroeder of Syracuse, "Occupational Segregation: Theory, Evidence and a Prognosis" by Solomon Polachek of the University of North Carolina, "The Convergence to Racial Equality in Women's Wages" by James Smith of the Rand Corporation, "Work Experience, Labor Force Withdrawals, and Women's Empirical Results Using the 1976 Panel Study of Income Dynamics" by Mary Corcoran of the University of Michigan, "The Evaluation of Sex Discrimination: Some Problems and a Suggested Re-orientation" by Brian Chiplin of the University of Nottingham, England, "Training Programs and the Employment and Earnings of Women" by Nicholas Kiefer of the University of Chicago, "The Impact of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws on the Male/Female Earnings Differentials" by Andrea Beller of the Radcliffe Institute, and "Male-Female Wage Differentials: Has the Government Had Any Effect?" by Edward Lazear of the University of Chicago. The conference was organized by Cynthia Lloyd of Barnard.

The second conference is sponsored by the Secretary of Labor and is designed to encourage greater use of the NLS data on mature women for policy purposes. It will be held on January 26 - 27, 1978 in Washington, D.C. The papers have already been selected. Participation is by invitation only. If you have a strong interest in participating, drop a line requesting an invitation to Isabel Sawhill, National Commission for Manpower Policy, 1522 K Street, N.W., Suite 300, Washington, D.C. 20005.
Other upcoming conferences. The fifth annual meeting of the Federation of Organizations of Professional Women is scheduled for October 27 – 29 at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. The meeting will focus on "Women, Power and Public Policy."

An international conference on Protective Legislation and Women's Employment will be held at Smith College, November 3-5. Participants will include researchers, lawyers, health specialists, labor union representatives and government officials from the U.S., Canada and Europe. It is expected that the conference papers will be published. The conference is funded by the Ford Foundation. Shawn Leary is the Conference Coordinator.

The National Women's Conference, organized by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year, will take place in Houston, Texas, November 18-21, 1977. There will be approximately 1500 official delegates elected at state and territorial meetings earlier this year plus several hundred delegates at large. The purpose of the process is "to assess the progress that has been made toward insuring equality for all women, to set goals for the elimination of all barriers to the full and equal participation of women in all aspects of American life, and to recognize the importance of the contribution of women to the development of friendly relations and cooperation among nations and to the strengthening of world peace." Following the conference the National Commission will draft a report for submission to the Congress and the President by March 31, 1978.

The Wellesley Center for Research on Women in Higher Education and the Professions has received a grant from the German Marshall Fund to organize and conduct a conference on the implementation of equal pay and equal opportunity legislation in North America and selected European countries. Approximately 40 European, U.S. and Canadian policy-level officials, lawyers and social scientists will be invited to participate. Carolyn Elliott, Director of the Center, is the project director.

GRANTS AND GRANT OPPORTUNITIES

The American Association of University Women Educational Foundation awards fellowships for research at the dissertation and postdoctoral level to American women and fellowships for graduate study in the United States to women who are citizens of other countries. Stipend for the American fellowships are $3500 – $7000 (up to $9000 for postdoctoral). The deadline for application is December 15, 1977 (December 1, 1977 for International Fellowships). The Center for Research on Women in Higher Education and the Professions at Wellesley College invites proposals for participation in a Faculty Development Program from women and men faculty in New England who are engaged in undergraduate
The goal of the program is to bring a more balanced view of women's and men's roles to the undergraduate curriculum by encouraging teaching faculty to engage in research on issues concerning women and to incorporate the results of scholarship in women into regular academic offerings. The program is funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. Grants are available for up to one semester of released time from teaching for research on curriculum development. The application deadline is January 15, 1978. For further information and application forms write to: Faculty Development Program, Center for Research on Women, Cheever House, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181.

Applications are now open for the White House Fellowship Program for 1978-79. The purpose of the program is to provide Americans of outstanding promise with first hand experience in the processes of government. For further information and application forms write to the President's Commission on White House Fellowships, Washington, D.C. 20415. The deadline for receipt of applications is December 1, 1977.

The Danforth Foundation's fellowships have been re-organized. The Graduate Fellowships for Women and the Kent Fellowships are no longer separate programs but several of their features are incorporated in the new Danforth Graduate Fellowship Program. For further information write to The Danforth Foundation, 222 South Central Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri 63105.

The German Marshall Fund has announced several grants under its program on Women and Work. One supports the Wellesley Conference, noted above. The others are for (1) a study of alternative child care policies in the U.S. and five European countries by Alfred Kahn and Sheila Kamerman of the Columbia School of Social Work, (2) a study of women and trade unions in Austria, Belgium, West Germany, Sweden and the U.K. by Alice Cook of Cornell University and Val Lorwin of the University of Oregon and (3) a study of social insurance and employed women in the U.S. and Europe by Nancy Barrett and Nancy Gordon of the Urban Institute.

PUBLICATIONS OF INTEREST

The Program on Women at Northwestern University has begun publishing a series of occasional papers and distributing other publications of interest to women's studies activists and scholars. The initial titles are Women and Health Care, an annotated Bibliography by Sheryl K. Ruzek ($3.50); The Health of Women at Work, a bibliography by Vilma Hunt ($6.00); The Place of Volunteerism in the Lives of Women, by Arlene Kaplan Daniels ($2.50); and Women and Work: An Issue in Honor of Caroline B. Rose, edited by Arlene Kaplan Daniels ($5.00). The last item is a special issue (Vol. 22, No. 4) of the Journal of Social Problems. Publications are available from The Program on Women, 619 Emerson Street, Evanston, Illinois 60201.
The College and University Personnel Association (CUPA) published this summer the results of a study by Carol Van Alstyne, chief economist of the American Council on Education, presenting data on employment and compensation patterns in higher education administration by race and sex. The report, entitled Women and Minorities in Higher Education Administration: Employment Patterns and Salary Comparisons, may be ordered from the College and University Personnel Association, 1 Dupont Circle, Suite 650, Washington, D.C. 20036. The price is $4 for CUPA members, $7 to others.

The Joint Council on Economic Education recently published "The Economic Role of Women" as part of its Economic Topic Series. The publication provides a clear and nontechnical article on the role of women in the American economy and includes a "Teach About" section suitable for use by college-level principles instructors and secondary school teachers. To order copies of the pamphlet ($2 each) or special classroom sets (30 student copies and one teacher edition for $12) contact Kathleen McNally, Joint Council on Economic Education, 1212 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036.

The Wellesley Center for Research on Women has announced the publication of a series of twelve booklets on Expanding Career Opportunities for Women in New England, prepared with the Federation of Organizations for Professional Women under contract with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. For information about titles and prices write to the Center at 828 Washington Street, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181.

Two recent books on women in Management have received widespread attention and favorable reviews. "The Managerial Woman" by Margaret Hennig and Anne Jardim of Simmons College (Anchor Press/Doubleday) is on the bestseller list. Rosabeth Moss Kanter's Men and Women of the Corporation (Basic Books) is an alternate Book-of-the-Month Club selection. Kanter is an Associate Professor of Sociology at Yale and a member of the faculty of the New School of Organization and Management there.
