Simply run replication_code.do to replicate all results and graphs in the paper. The .do file uses BLS_Distance_working.dta, which is the original replication data set for the Feyrer et al paper. It also uses fms_results_figures.dta, which simply combines results generated from the rest of the .do file to recreate the graphs that show original results from Feyrer et al.