

November 8th, 2022

Disclosure Statement for: “Global Value Chains in Developing Countries: A Perspective from Coffee and Garments” by Laura Boudreau, Julia Cajal-Grossi and Rocco Macchiavello

- This study was supported by funding from the ERC Grant 818767 “Sharing Gains from Trade: Global Markets and Farmers Welfare in Developing Countries” funded under “EXCELLENT SCIENCE - European Research Council (ERC)” to the London School of Economics and Political Science
- I have not received financial support from any party with interests in this research.
- I have no paid or unpaid positions with any profit or non-profit organization with a stake in this research.
- I have no close relative or partner with conflicts of interest with respect to this research.
- No other party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.
- The work does not involve any collection of data on human subjects, so no IRB approval was sought

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Laura Boudreau". The script is cursive and fluid, with the first letters of each word being capitalized and prominent.

Laura Boudreau
Assistant Professor
Economics Division
Columbia Business School

November 8th, 2022

Disclosure Statement for: “Global Value Chains in Developing Countries: A Perspective from Coffee and Garments” by Laura Boudreau, Julia Cajal-Grossi and Rocco Macchiavello

- This study was supported by funding from the ERC Grant 818767 “Sharing Gains from Trade: Global Markets and Farmers Welfare in Developing Countries” funded under “EXCELLENT SCIENCE - European Research Council (ERC)” to the London School of Economics and Political Science
- I have not received financial support from any party with interests in this research.
- I have no paid or unpaid positions with any profit or non-profit organization with a stake in this research.
- I have no close relative or partner with conflicts of interest with respect to this research.
- No other party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.
- The work does not involve any collection of data on human subjects, so no IRB approval was sought

Julia Cajal-Grossi

Assistant Professor in Economics,
The Geneva Graduate Institute (IHEID)

November 8th, 2022

Disclosure Statement for: “Global Value Chains in Developing Countries: A Perspective from Coffee and Garments” by Laura Boudreau, Julia Cajal-Grossi and Rocco Macchiavello

- This study was supported by funding from the ERC Grant 818767 “Sharing Gains from Trade: Global Markets and Farmers Welfare in Developing Countries” funded under “EXCELLENT SCIENCE - European Research Council (ERC)” to the London School of Economics and Political Science
- I have not received financial support from any party with interests in this research.
- I have no paid or unpaid positions with any profit or non-profit organization with a stake in this research.
- I have no close relative or partner with conflicts of interest with respect to this research.
- No other party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation.
- The work does not involve any collection of data on human subjects, so no IRB approval was sought

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Rocco Macchiavello', written in a cursive style.

Rocco Macchiavello
Associate Professor of Management
Department of Management
London School of Economics and Political Science