

American Economic Journals Disclosure Statement
(Please include one for every author of the paper.)

Date: March 16, 2018

Author Name: Jeffrey Liebman

Manuscript Title: The Decline, Rebound, and Further Rise in SNAP Enrollment:
Disentangling Business Cycle Fluctuations and Policy Changes

Disclosure Statement:

I did not receive any financial support for this research. No other party has had the right to review this paper prior to its circulation.

Below is the list of my outside professional activities for 2014-2016, when I worked on this paper. In addition, I would like to disclose that I was Executive Associate Director and Chief Economist and then Acting Deputy Director of the Office of Management and Budget from 2009-2010. In those roles, I worked on a wide range of federal budget issues, including funding levels for SNAP.

2016

National Bureau of Economic Research. Conducted economic research; served as associate director of retirement research center and disability research center (paid).

Commission on Evidence-Based Policymaking. Member (appointed by Senate minority leader). Unpaid.

Manhattan Institute. Wrote book chapter (paid).

2015

National Bureau of Economic Research. Conducted economic research; served as associate director of retirement research center and disability research center (paid).

Gates Foundation. Wrote summary of a research literature (paid).

2014

National Bureau of Economic Research. Conducted economic research; served as associate director of retirement research center and disability research center (paid).