

Financial disclosure form for Greg Duncan

The research reported in our article was supported by the following funders of the National Forum on Early Childhood Policy and Programs: the Birth to Five Policy Alliance, the Buffett Early Childhood Fund, Casey Family Programs, the McCormick Tribune Foundation, the Norlien Foundation, Harvard University, and an anonymous donor. It also received support from the Institute of Education Sciences (R305A110035) and the NICHD-supported Irvine Network on Interventions in Development (HD065704 P01) .

Over the past 3 years, Duncan has received financial support totaling at least $10,000 from the following sources: the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, the Russell Sage Foundation, the Spencer Foundation, Institute of Education Sciences at the Department of Education, John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, Foundation for Child Development, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Smith Richardson Foundation.

Duncan holds the following appointments with organizations with goals that relate to the subject of the article:

Member, First Things First National Advisory Panel (Arizona), 2011-present.

Member, First 5 LA Research Advisory Committee, 2010-present.

Co-chair, National Forum on Early Childhood Program Evaluation, 2006-present.

Member, National Scientific Council on the Developing Child, 2002-2011, 2012-present.

Member, Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting Program Evaluation, Secretary's Advisory Committee, Department of Health and Human Services, 2011-present.

No one other than the authors has had a right to review the paper prior to its publication.