

July 2013

Ricardo Reis
Disclosure statement

Compensated teaching or advising at central banks or related organizations

Study Center, Gerzensee, Switzerland: lecturer, 2011.
Banco Central do Brasil: lecturer, 2011.
International Monetary Fund Institute: lecturer, 2011-13.
Federal Reserve Bank of New York: academic consultant and visiting scholar, 2011-13.
Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis: academic consultant, 2013.
Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond: academic consultant, 2013

Others sources of compensated activities

Journal of Monetary Economics: co-editor, 2011-13.
Cowles Foundation, Yale University: visitor and lecturer, 2011.
Brookings Papers on Economic Activity: panel member, 2011-13.
Russell Sage Foundation: visiting scholar, 2011-12.
Regular opinion column in Portuguese newspaper Dinheiro Vivo, 2011-13.

Financial support for research

INET grant to study “New-style central banking”, 2013-14
NSF grant to study “Dynamic Measures of Inflation, 2009-12.