

February 11, 2014

Editors, The Journal of Economic Perspectives

Dear editors,

I would like to disclose the following – none of these I see as causing a Conflict of Interests – but I would like to disclose these all anyway following AEA and NBER best practice.

- I have received funding from the Toulouse Network of Information Technology, a research foundation supported by Microsoft, for work related to IT.
- I have received speaking fees from US Bank, Wells Fargo, Macroeconomic Advisers, San Francisco Fed and KPMG for talks on the US economy (each one less than $10,000).
- I received the Addington prize from the Frazer Institute for my work with Scott Baker and Steve Davis on “Measuring Economic Policy Uncertainty”. (less than $10,000).
- I have received teaching honorarium for courses on the economics of uncertainty and related topics from the IMF, Chicago and Notre Dame (less than $10,000).
- I have received an honorarium for writing a chapter on risk and uncertainty for the World Bank in its 2013 World Development Review
- I won the Bernacer Prize in 2013 for research on Macroeconomics
- I won the Kauffman Prize in 2014 for research on Entrepreneurship

Please not hesitate to contact me if you have any further questions.

Best regards

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Nicholas Bloom".

Nick Bloom